HOW TO SAFELY BOOST DETERGENT PERFORMANCE WITH OXIDISING AGENTS

Recently on the Carpet Cleaners forum contributors mentioned that they experienced a violent reaction when mixing hydrogen peroxide with various detergents. They were attempting to add the beneficial stain and soil removing properties of the peroxide — a powerful oxidizing agent — and so boost the performance of the detergent. What they experienced was the detergent and the peroxide destroying each other.

If you wish to perform this operation safely and effectively you need a product specially designed for the job.

THE CHEMOX[®] STORY

For many years we have sold Browning Remover a peroxide based product with additions to increase its stability and efficacy. At the same time when we launched our new formula SK50 one of the many objectives and improvements was to increase the stability of the product in the presence of oxidizing agents. Field tests have been conducted with this system for some time and as a result we have further improved the system and now have pleasure in launching CHEMOX[®] a peroxide based booster specially designed to be compatible with a wide range of Sonitron[®] detergents. This is what we have achieved.

1. CHEMOX[®] is compatible with the following Sonitron[®] products:-

SK50
SONISTEAM
CITRUS SONISTEAM
MAXI-T-3
CITRUS SPECIAL MAXI-T-3
SK45
FIBRECLEAN
ZENITH
ZENITH PLUS
RELEASE with ENCAP

2. It can be used in the ready for use dilution form in a pump up or back pack sprayer or blended in a concentrate form in venturi type sprayers such as Hydroforce, or mixed in the tank of your Cimex before encap.

Refer to our technical bulletin for further details on CHEMOX[®]
